Journalism Ethics and Practices Encounter, Würzburg

Würzburg, 02.10.2013

Date: 11 ? 13 April 2014

Venue: University of Applied Sciences

AboutMEDIANE^[1] ? Media in Europe for Diversity Inclusiveness

The Media in Europe for Diversity Inclusiveness (MEDIANE) is a joint European Union (EU) ^[2] / Council of Europe (CoE) ^[3] programme in which the European Federation of Journalists (EFJ) ^[4] is one of the partnering organisations. The MEDIANE programme is led by the CoE to improve the capacities of media and professionals to include diversity of today's European societies in the media production process as well as in the designing of media content, in particular of news that contributes to inform the public and shape their opinion.

MEDIANE offers the media and professionals (journalism students and trainers, journalists, media managers, etc.) the opportunity of committing themselves to sharing professional practices, either during European or thematic encounters ^[5] or on one-to-one basis, through European Exchanges ^[6].

Beyond this sharing of experiences, these professionals will be invited to build a Media Index on diversity inclusiveness. This index ^[7] shall be a tool, for the media and media professionals, to self-monitor their practices to include diversity in the design and production of media content. It is also intended to serve as a decision-making tool in favour of an inclusive and intercultural mode of media content design and production.

As a member of the EFJ, the Deutscher Journalisten-Verband (DJV) and his affiliate Bayerischer Journalisten-Verband (BJV) are hosting the one of the meeting focusing on Journalism Ethics and Practices in Würzburg.

Here you find the final agenda of MEDIANE ^[8] (7 pages, 319 kb). Please also check the new MEDIANE website ^[9].

Online registration will be open in January.

PRACTICAL INFORMATION

About Würzburg

Würzburg is the capital city of the lower Franconia district with a population of 135000. Situated in between Frankfurt and Nuremberg in a valley of the Main River, Würzburg is among the favourite destinations in Germany for both business and tourism. The city is well-known for its historical monuments including the Residence Palace which is a must-see UNESCO World Cultural Heritage site.

The Medical History that changed the world was also written in Würzburg in 1895 when Wilhelm Conrad Roentgen discovered the X-Ray during his work at Würzburg University. He was the first of the 14 Nobel Prize winners who are from Würzburg. Würzburg also played an important role in media history. In 1814, the German inventor, Friedrich Koenig, built the first cylinder printing press machine which was then used by the Times newspaper in London. For more information about the city, please visit here ^[13].
